CNL HEALTHCARE PROPERTIES NAMES NEW CHIEF FINANCIAL OFFICER

-- Kevin R. Maddron assumed new role on May 1 --

(ORLANDO, Fla.) May 11, 2015 — The board of directors of CNL Healthcare Properties, a real estate investment trust (REIT) focused on senior housing and healthcare facilities, has named Kevin R. Maddron as chief financial officer, treasurer, and chief operating officer effective May 1. He will also continue to serve as senior managing director of asset management for CNL Financial Group, providing executive oversight of the company's expansive senior housing and healthcare real estate portfolio.

Prior to rejoining CNL in 2011, Maddron served as the COO and CFO of Servant Healthcare Investments, where he was responsible for managing treasury and finance activities and overseeing the acquisitions, development, project analysis and due diligence efforts for the company. He previously served as vice president of asset management for CNL Retirement Properties from November 2002 until the sale of the company in October 2006.

In his new and expanded role, Maddron will lead the corporate finance, accounting and financial reporting activities for CNL Healthcare Properties, which owned more than $2 billion of senior housing and healthcare facilities as of March 15, 2015. He will also continue to provide executive leadership of all asset management and operational management activities focused on senior housing and healthcare properties for CNL.

"I am honored to take on these new responsibilities within CNL Healthcare Properties," Maddron said. "However, my day-to-day goal of identifying and investing in the best possible healthcare and senior housing assets to create a strong and diverse portfolio for our investors remains unchanged."

Maddron has a bachelor's degree and master's degree in accounting from the University of Central Florida and is a certified public accountant.
